MILITARY PAY BILL WOULD GIVE SERVICE PERSONNEL RAISES OF SIX PER CENT

By JOHN A. HARRIS

Washington (P)—President Eisenhower has sent to Congress a military pay bill which would give most service personnel a raise of at least six per cent, and also provide for merit increases.

The bill was introduced in the House by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee, shortly after the White House disclosed details of administration proposals for boosting pay of postal and civil service workers, as well as service personnel.

The raises for all groups would cost about a billion dollars annually. The administration wants the raises to become effective July 1.

Army Checks Launching Data Of Big Missile

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (P)—The Army checked over tape and photographic records of a night-time launching of its big Redstone missile today for clues that might help it put an American-style Sputnik into an orbit.

The Redstone was sent up into a starlight, cloudless, moonless sky from the Air Force missile test center here last night.

Photographic and recording devices at island stations along the missile test range extending out into the Atlantic registered detailed information on how the missile performed.

The Redstone is considerably more than the Army's biggest—and first operational—ballistic missile. A Redstone will be the first stage of the huge Jupiter-C test vehicle.

With this device the Army hopes, before another month, to send up an earth satellite.

The Redstone, 69 feet long and 6 feet in diameter, lifted sluggishly from its launching pad, in fiery sheets of exhaust fumes and with an earth-shaking roar.

It climbed vertically, at a rapidly accelerating pace, for thousands of feet. Then it arched at (Turn to Page Ten)

Report Declares AFL-CIO Abolishing Organizers' Jobs

New York (P)—The New York Times quoted informed sources today as saying the AFL-CIO has abolished nearly 100 organizers' jobs.

Some of the organizers are being retired involuntarily, some are being transferred to a new speakers' bureau that is being set up in the public relations department and a substantial number are being discharged, the newspaper said in a Washington dispatch.

The Times story continued: One of those reported discharged is Robert Christofferson of Charlotte, N. C., leader of the new organizers' union that has been fighting for recognition in the AFL-CIO.

In addition, a number of other employees in the headquarters building are being laid off.

The sweeping re-entrancement takes effect Feb. 1, about the time AFL-CIO leaders will be gathering in Miami Beach to consider a $1,200,000-a-year public relations program.

Plans Announced for Annual Warren Area C. of C. Dinner

Tickets for the third annual Warren Area Chamber of Commerce banquet will be in the mail this weekend to all members, according to a report made last night to the board of directors. The Chamber committee, headed by Robert Marlin, has secured Dr. Murray Banks, of New York City, as after dinner speaker and promises one of the most entertaining evenings of the year to all who attend.

The annual event is scheduled for Wednesday, February 5 at Beatty's cafeteria, starting with a roast beef dinner at 6:30 p. m. Before hearing Dr. Banks, the Chamber group will meet its newly elected directors and officers and examine the 1958 program of work which is now in preparation.

Citation Presented Warren Area C. of C.

In Harrisburg this noon the Warren Area Chamber of Commerce received a citation from the Pennsylvania Association of Future Farmers of America for its activity on behalf of young farmers during the past ten years. The presentation was accepted for the Chamber by T. R. Sponser, county vocational advisor. William R. Walker, Chamber vice president and Charles R. Tranter, executive vice president, were unable to reach Harrisburg today when the Allegheny Airlines morning flight was cancelled due to icy runways.

Sarah Follows Bad Performance With "One of Her Best"

Hollywood (P)—They were betting actress Sarah Churchill wouldn't make it.

When the daughter of Great Britain's Sir Winston Churchill entered NBC's huge television studio at 5:30 a. m. yesterday, a stagehand watching her arrival murmured: "That took guts."

At noon, Miss Churchill's wan face was submitted to the glaring lights and searching eye of the television camera in an hour-long play, "The Makropoulos Secret."

She gave one of the best performances of her life, critics said. Many TV viewers also believed it "took guts" for the actress to appear. Less than 24 hours before arrival at the station, she had been a temporary inmate of county jail.

She had been arrested on a drunk charge after sheriff's deputies accused her of using profane language over the telephone. The arrest was accompanied by kicking, scuffling and tearing of clothes, the officers said.

Miss Churchill goes into court tomorrow to answer the misdemeanor charge.

Soon after she was bailed out, she headed for the TV studio and rehearsed five hours.

House Readies $548,226,000 Air Force Bill

Washington (P)—The House made way today for quick consideration of a $548,226,000 emergency Air Force construction bill.

Backers predicted approval with little debate of the measure which, among other things, would authorize a start on construction of the country's third base for intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Various other missile projects, a defensive warning system against missiles, and dispersal of bomber bases also would be authorized under the measure, a part of the speeded-up defense plans developed to offset Russian missile progress.

Both Senate and House committees, meanwhile, continued separate probes of the nation's overall defense status, and partisans in and out of Congress sought to assess political blame for the situation.

The bill before the House, taken up only eight days after Congress convened, was one of the most swiftly handled major bills in recent years. The Senate still must act. The measure is a preliminary to a $1,260,000,000 supplemental money bill which also must be passed by both houses to be effective.

Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee said the authorization measure, backed by President Eisenhower, is true emergency legislation for two reasons.

These, Vinson said in a statement for the House Rules Committee, are, "first, the items in the bill are in themselves of the highest priority, and in the second place, a prompt approval of this bill will save up to one year on construction time."

Vinson explained that if the construction projects had to wait for consideration of the President's regular budget proposals, outdoor building weather this year might be past in some localities before the work could be well started.

No Official Word About Nuclear Plane Crash

Washington (P)—The government would give no details today on its brief admission that at least one plane carrying a nuclear weapon crashed without exploding the weapon.

The Pentagon, apparently acting after consultation with other government agencies, refused to say where or when the accident occurred or to say whether more than one incident might have occurred.

However, there was growing belief that the accident mentioned by the Air Force Monday occurred within the last year in the continental United States and involved a B47 medium bomber.

TRIBUTE FOR LASKY

Hollywood (P)—The film industry pays its final tribute tomorrow to a pioneer producer, Jesse L. Lasky Sr., at funeral services in a cemetery chapel.

Lasky, one of the celebrated few chiefly responsible for developing the infant film industry to giant status during a 44-year career, died last Monday at 77. He collapsed with a heart attack.

PARENTS DESERT SIX

Pittsburgh (P)—A seven-state alarm has been issued for the missing parents of six children. The Pittsburgh Missing Persons Bureau yesterday sent out an alarm for Mr. and Mrs. George Demko of Universal. The couple was last seen in the Bohemian Club of Universal on New Year's Day.

Birthday Greeting in Marathon Exchange

Warwick, R. I. (P)—In 1939 Henri M. Morn sent his son Paul a card on his birthday with the notation that it be returned on the sender's birthday.

Paul sent it back to his father—and it continued going back and forth on their birthdays.

Nearly 20 years later, the card went this week from Paul to his father in St. Petersburg, Fla., to mark his 76th birthday. The card is so worn it is now held together with tape.

The Trouble With Harry

Newsmen make a valiant effort to keep up with former President Truman (center with dark coat, hat) during his morning constitutional in Manhattan. Truman told the reporters he doesn't see how the present budget can be balanced without raising taxes or cutting some essential federal services. He said, "Whatever is necessary for defense obligations should be authorized." (NEA Telephoto.)

Claim by DeLuxe Metal Union Of Being Locked Out Denied In Statement From Company

Pickets today were marching back and forth in front of DeLuxe Metal Furniture plant with placards charging "company lockout."

Al Amos, plant manager, stated: "The charge that workers have been locked out is a gross mistake. We have made a serious point of not locking out employees and have advised them by inference and request that they return to work."

A meeting between labor, management, a state mediator and federal conciliator has been set for 11 a. m. Friday at the plant.

The following statement was submitted to the Times-Mirror this morning by a delegation from the union:

"UE Local 633 last night charged the DeLuxe Metal Furniture Company with a lock-out of 145 of its members employed at the plant. In a telegram to the Company Isadore Trager, Shop Chairman, stated:

"Your refusal to allow your employees to work constitutes a lock-out. The Union urges an end to the lock-out so that negotiations to reach agreement on a new contract may be resumed on Friday under most favorable conditions."

"Negotiations between the DeLuxe Shop Committee of UE Local 633 and the Company have been in progress for about two months. While agreement had been reached on a number of contract improvements, the Company's wage offer was rejected by the Union members."

The gala wedding activities were climaxed with a reception for about 80 friends at the home of Jayne's mother and her stepfather Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Peers.

In an interview, her mother indicated Jayne has a few bucks stashed away in case her career ever showed signs of slowing. Mrs. Peers, the former Vera Jeffery Palmer, said Jayne has received "over $100,000 from the estate of her grandfather." He was the late Elmer Palmer, who was in the slate business in Pen Argyl, Pa.

Swissvale Women Critical After Shooting Incident

Pittsburgh (P)—Attendees at Braddock General Hospital said today a 39-year-old Swissvale woman who was mysteriously shot remained in "critical condition."

Mrs. Elizabeth Biehl was found lying on a couch with a bullet wound in the back of her head in her Swissvale home yesterday.

Police said she apparently had been watching television when shot. They said no gun was found in the house. Officers added that Mrs. Biehl was discovered by her husband, Joseph, when he returned home.

Police questioned Biehl several hours last night, gave him a lie detector test, then released him after finding no discrepancies in his story.

Former President Makes Peace Appeal in Speech

New York (P)—Former President Harry S. Truman says "every door and window and chimney" should be left open "to even the faintest ghost of a chance to work out some workable arrangement for peace."

"But," he said in a speech last night, "let us not make the mistake and fail to do what so urgently needs to be done, and that is to restore and maintain our strength at a level which will not tempt the Communist imperialists into aggression."

Addressing the New York Employing Printers Assn., he called for "bold action, bold initiative and bold imagination linked to patience" in this country's dealing with the Soviet Union.

BUDGET PRINCIPAL SUBJECT DISCUSSED IN FIRST PRESS CONFERENCE SINCE OCT. 30

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington (P)—President Eisenhower said today he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending this year to a tax increase.

The President, at his first news conference in 2½ months, said he believes some red ink spending would be the only answer under present circumstances if it came to a choice between that and a tax increase in order to handle the proposed new federal budget.

In that connection, Eisenhower noted that his economic advisers are predicting an upturn from the current business recession.

Eisenhower was discussing the $73,900,000,000 budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 which he sent to Congress Monday.

On paper, it is narrowly in balance with a forecast of a surplus of half a billion dollars based on anticipated tax revenues.

A 400-million-dollar deficit now is in prospect for the current fiscal year, because tax collections have fallen with the decline in business prosperity while spending for defense has gone up.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference since October 30. He suffered a minor stroke on Nov. 25.

In reply to questions about his health at this time, he said with a smile that he is feeling very good and would like to get out on the golf course for a couple of hours if only there were some sun.

His face was ruddy as of old, and the consensus of the 270 newsmen was that he handled himself well.

There was one instance, near the start of the 30-minute session, when Eisenhower appeared to "fluff" a word or two. But there was no more of that—and quite possibly there was less—than before the slight stroke which manifested itself by a temporary speech difficulty.

Eisenhower said he never had any consideration to resigning after his latest illness. He touched off a round of laughter by adding that his doctors were assuring him a couple of hours after the minor stroke that—as the president put it—there was no damage whatever to the intellectual faculties he has.

Turning serious, Eisenhower went on to say that if ever his doctors should tell him that he was unable to carry on the duties of the presidency, he would have no recourse except to resign.

Eisenhower also discussed these other matters:

SUMMIT—Eisenhower said—as he did in his message to Soviet Premier Bulganin last weekend—that there must be adequate advance preparation before he would agree to any new summit conference with the Russians. He said the preliminary steps probably should include meetings at the ambassadorial level and of the foreign ministers of the countries to be represented at any such conference.

In reply to a question, Eisenhower said he has given no thought whatever to including Red China and its satellites in any summit conference.

GAITHER REPORT — Eisenhower said he has no intention whatever of ever releasing the administration's Gaither report on the state of the nation's defenses and the prospect for the future.

DULLES — Eisenhower vigorously labeled as trash reports that Secretary of State Dulles might resign.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY — A reporter noted that Eisenhower will observe his fifth anniversary in office next Monday.

Eisenhower responded that he intends to carry on in the three remaining years of his term (Turn to Page Ten)

Everyone Interested Invited To Attend Kinzua Dam Meeting

Everyone interested in the Kinzua Dam issue is invited by Save Our Valley Committee to attend the public meeting in the large courtroom of Warren County Courthouse at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Seneca Nation Attorney Ed O'Neill will be on hand to answer as many questions as possible, plus outline the Indians' legal fight to secure an injunction against the proposed government construction on usurped lands.

Attorney O'Neill, incidentally, will have to leave the meeting early to catch a plane to Washington, D. C., for a federal court hearing on the injunction matter Friday morning.

Also expected to appear at the meeting will be Chief Cornelius Seneca, pow-wow head of Seneca Nation which is going to fight right down to the line with every legal means at its disposal. The Indians contend that President George Washington was the first in a long line of United States Chief Executives who guaranteed the sovereignty, in perpetuity, of the Seneca Nation.

The Seneca Indian tract, which would have several thousand of its acres flooded by the proposed dam, has been called the last sovereign territory to exist within the boundaries of continental United States.

Richard Morrison of Kinzua, Save Our Valley Committee chairman, will preside at the meeting.

At least two other proposals have been suggested rather than a Kinzua Dam. One is a diversionary channel to Lake Erie, the other a series of smaller check dams, both of which would regulate river flow at less cost to taxpayers.

Jamestown Airport Commission Former Chairman Blasts Talk Of a Central Landing Field

Editor's Note: Mrs. Lucile Wright, a woman secured by Jamestown Airport Commission which she formerly headed, has issued this latest diatribe against renewed rumors of a tri-borough airport serving this entire area. Jamestown's Municipal Airport is in greater danger of becoming a hayfield than ever before. Mrs. Lucile S. Wright, former chairman of the Airport Commission charged Tuesday.

She stated: "Early in 1956 an effort to promote a new Jamestown-Warren-Corv Airport south of here was made. If such a project, is developed Jamestown will lose both prestige and service."

"Now we hear that the Thurman has solved the flight problem for Jamestown and what is needed is a Jamestown-Warren-Corv airport which would cost millions more. If this were so, it would be better for Jamestown to sit quiet."

Wright said it is no secret that industry has coveted the million dollar hangar for some time and if it were turned over to the city, the hangar would become easy prey for industrial interests who would acquire it for a song.

However, despite the predictions of Mayor Sanford that the permission to use it for either purpose can be secured without too much difficulty, there might be a hitch in this direction, Mrs. Wright said.

The government still has a claim on the hangar under the terms upon which it was given to the city, she continued. "Since I left the commission, the outside assault on the hangar has begun in earnest and there is no evidence that a stumbling block will be placed in anybody's path. If the commission is ever to carry out the Master Plan for the airport, which is designed for a 'going' town, the hangar is included in that plan and would play an important role in the scheme of things."

In passing, Mrs. Wright took time out to comment about the commission which she lately headed. She said that most of Commission's 1958 objectives were objectives first set in 1956 and again in 1957.

"Lampe Lodge" at Camp Olmsted

Through an oversight, an article appeared in last evening's Times-Mirror without the picture assigned to it. The story concerned Lampe Lodge, which was donated to the Boy Scout camp at Olmsted by Emil Lampe, one of the organizers of Scouting in Warren, and first president of the Second Class Council in 1916. Mr. Lampe, businessman, humanitarian, and philanthropist, who died Sunday morning, worked closely with Russ Hanson and the committee to draw up plans for the above structure, which when completed will house 16 week-end campers. ### Special Adviser to President To Speak Here Tuesday Night

Dick Cook, president of the 1927, LL B, 1929. He was, at the age of 31, elected governor of Minnesota in 1938 and was twice (1940, 1942) reelected. In the Second World War, Stassen resigned (1943) as governor to enter the navy and saw active duty in the Pacific before he was discharged (1945) as captain. He was a delegate (1945) to the San Francisco Conference called to create the United Nations and in 1948 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination. In July, 1948, Stassen was named president of the U. of Pennsylvania. He wrote "Where I Stand" (1947).

Announcement that the distinguished statesman is to deliver the talk at the banquet has created widespread interest and it is expected a capacity crowd will be in attendance. He is one of the numerous figures that is currently being prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for the nomination for governor in Pennsylvania this year.

Mirrored in Our Times

So—it's January—the month of snow, rain, sleet, cold and days deceptively mild. It's January, when many a housewife ventures forth to seek the traditional bargains. White sales are featured and ready-to-wear department offer dresses, coats and suits at prices considerably lower than usual. Post-holiday novelties are being cleared away and inventory specials appear in many stores throughout the community. 1958 finds some mercantile establishments no longer with us and soon it will be spring once more. As for our particular bargain suggestion, we have noted this is the time of year when scores of fragrance companies come forth with an annual special—providing the wise shopper with a wonderful opportunity to choose an individual scent for herself and to stock up on impressive gift ideas for future giving and save, save, save at the same time! Most of these splendid offers are limited to a 30-day period.

Every day is a prominent day at The Style Shop—because with every day some local man suits himself in "the best in menswear." And—just as other stores—during January—he can augment his wardrobe and save as he shops. Even the ladies are Style Shop boosters—because they can shop for their husbands and be right every step of the way.

January 27th should provide tops in comedy if you're among the lucky ones planning to travel to Jamestown. Once again, Victor Borge will appear in person to charm fans from the entire area. Also, during January, Marie Hamilton will be directing members of her "Witness for the Prosecution" cast in preparation for the February Players' Club production.

Those who anticipated January doldrums should now experience a change of mind—great things are happening—so don't stand on the sidelines. Check the dates and be he who waits for the many events listed for this first month of a new year.

Notice of intention of Borough of Warren to adopt Per Capita Tax Ordinance for 1958

Notice is hereby given that The Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Warren, Pennsylvania, in pursuance of authority granted by Act No. 481 of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved June 25, 1947, P. L. 1145 as amended and supplemented, intends to consider at its Regular Meeting to be held February 10, 1958 at 7:30 P. M. at Warren Municipal Building, Warren, Pennsylvania, the adoption of an ordinance imposing a per capita tax for the year 1958 of Five Dollars ($5.00) on each resident or inhabitant of the Borough of Warren of the age of twenty-one (21) years or over.

The reason which in the judgment of The Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Warren necessitates the imposition of said tax is that it is required, in addition to other legal sources of revenue of said Borough of Warren to provide funds for the proper operation of the Borough of Warren. The amount of revenue estimated to be derived from said tax is Forty-one Thousand ($41,000.00) Dollars.

POOR MRS. APPLETON

Mrs. Cynthia Appleton of Birmingham, England, had a strange lament for inquiring reporters this week. Seems after the 27-year-old mother of two small girls told her relatives and friends that she had been visited twice by spacemen, the fair weather cronies began to ignore her.

Too bad, too, because her husband, Ronald, and a pair of clergymen believe her tale. As Mrs. Appleton tells it, she was first visited by a single spaceman about six weeks ago. Last week he came back and brought a friend, both wearing "tight suits and domes on their heads." She was terrified when the spaceman first walked into her home, related Mrs. Appleton, but the fear disappeared when "he spoke so kindly."

Her departed friends have been muttering that the young woman has been working too hard. "Nothing to worry about, though," said Mrs. Appleton, "The spacemen said the only reason they would come to this planet would be to raise the standards of our civilization." Looks like their work is cut out for them in Birmingham.

BRIGHTER EDUCATION PICTURE

So much of the talk about U. S. education is gloomy stuff that it is good once in a while to be able to sound a cheerful note.

The National Industrial Conference Board, in one of its pictorial charts, shows that educational levels in the American labor force have been definitely on the rise in the last two decades.

In 1940, just 13.4 per cent of the then much smaller total labor force (ages 18 to 64) had attended college, with only 6.4 per cent graduating. By March of 1957 the percentage had climbed to 18, with graduates comprising 9.2 per cent.

The proportion of the labor force taking high school training was 38.4 per cent in 1940, with 20.3 per cent as graduates. Last March the figure had risen to 50.3 per cent and the graduate total was 30.5 per cent.

Breakdowns of the work force show that among the college trained people professional and technical jobs bulk largest—more than 63 per cent. But those with no more than high school training tend to find employment in skilled and semi-skilled labor, clerical and sales jobs, service trades, farming. Only 6.8 per cent qualified for professional or technical work.

Not a word in this report, of course, about the content of this education. But at least more people in the labor force are getting it.

STILL UNDERPAID

Warren, like all other small communities, is beset with the problem of keeping the pay up to a living level for municipal employees. Even with the latest pay raise of approximately $10 a month the scale is considerably lower than those in private industry. For instance, the starting pay of the police department is now $1.29-an-hour. For a group whose job is 90 per cent trouble anyway during a 48-hour week, it hardly seems enough, though perhaps, just what the traffic will bear. After three years, the pay jumps to $1.59 an hour. That's that.

Officers and members of the Field and Stream Club are deserving of a special word of commendation for their annual Kids Night, for all girls and boys in the Warren area, held last evening at the court house with a huge crowd in attendance. All concerned pronounced it one of the most entertaining programs ever presented by the organization.

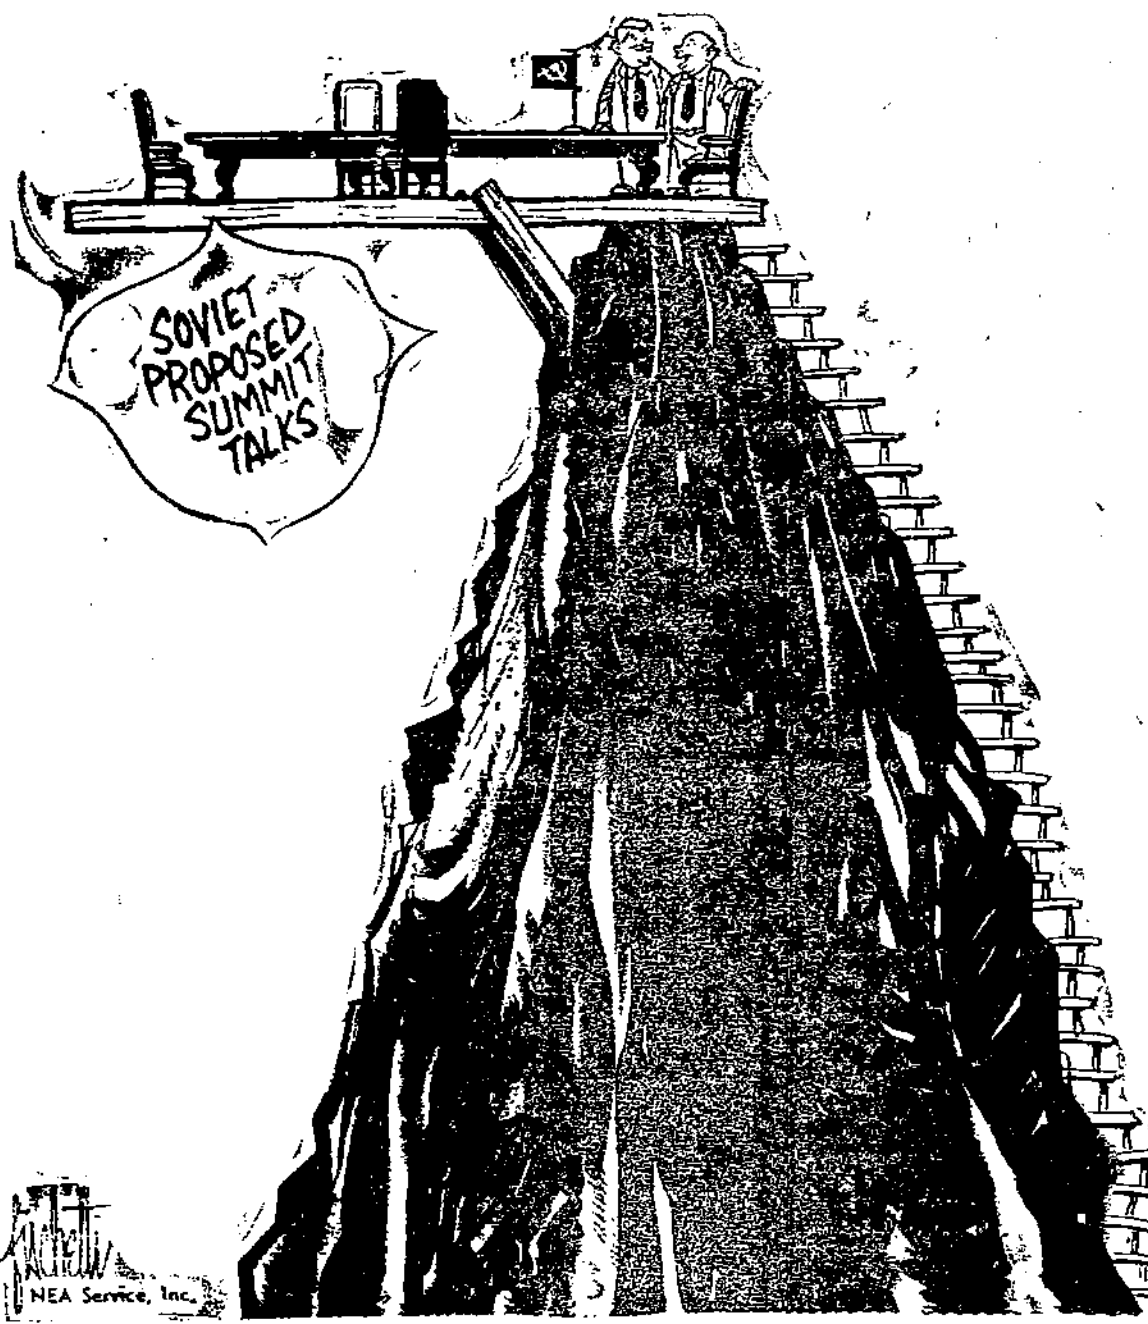

Harold Stassen, presidential adviser on Disarmament speaker at the Bosses' Night dinner sponsored by the Jaycees next Tuesday, and Jimmy Dudley on the program for the Sports Boosters' Senior-Lettermen's banquet later in the month—nothing but the best for Warren!

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Faith can place a candle in the darkest night.—Margaret

We Sit Here, Naturally

Here and There

Small World Department: We've experienced another of those unusual happenings that again emphasize just how small the old world can be, in spite of Sputniks, space missiles and rockets. On December 17th we published on the first page of the Times-Mirror a picture showing workmen putting finishing touches on a new tower used in constructing elevated tanks at the Hammond Iron Company plant in this city. On or about that time we sent a copy of this glossy print, (incidentally taken by Everett Stokes of this city), to the Pittsburgh Bureau of The Associated Press, feeling that the similarity between the picture of the tower and the Rockets which were pretty much in the news might arouse the interest of people in the wirephoto and telephoto departments of that organization. Later we were advised that the picture had been mailed to New York, and in the days that followed it was sent across the nation by wirephoto. In view of what has happened since it is just possible that it was "wired" around the world, since we have a copy of the picture clipped from an Army paper in Sunback, Germany, and sent to Mrs. John F. Naegeli, 435 Jackson street extension, by a nephew, John David Ham, of Aniston, Ala., who is on tour of duty in that country. The picture of the tower appeared in about the same single column size as was printed in the Times-Mirror, with the following descriptive matter—"No Rocket: Workmen put finishing touches on a new four-stage steel tower; at Warren, Pa., to be used in constructing elevated water tanks!—A. P."

★ EDSON IN WASHINGTON ★
Congress Awaits Details Of Ike's Recommendations

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Anyone wanting details of President Eisenhower's program for the second year of his second term will have to wait for his budget, economic and later special messages to Congress.

This became obvious when the President's State of the Union message revealed his objectives only in the broadest of general terms. Observers sized it up as being more notable for its omissions than for recommending anything Congress could go to work on immediately.

The President admitted that his own conclusions on defense reorganization had not yet been "finalized." Critics were quick to point out that this is one subject on which the President—as an ex-General of the Army—should have had expert and ready answers. The President's recommendations on an accelerated defense program were sized up in Washington as being far less specific than those outlined by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson several days before.

THE PRESIDENT sketched in a four-billion-dollar increase for the defense budget. But he indicated this would have to be paid for out of current revenues without deficit financing.

How this can be done was not specified. Financial experts indicated that to do it would be a neater trick than launching a Sputnik. Foreign aid and foreign trade recommendations of the President offered nothing new. Furthermore, these are subjects for which there is little enthusiasm in Congress.

Previous Eisenhower proposals for federal aid to public school construction were not repeated in this year's message.

Substituted was a rough outline for a four-year, 250-million-dollar-a-year program to aid science education. National Science Foundation funds for this purpose are to be raised from 15 to 75 million dollars a year. Basic research funds are to be increased from 16 to 32 million dollars a year.

ONE ANALYSIS of the State of the Union message shows that the first 80 per cent of it dealt with war or preparation for war. Only the last 20 per cent dealt with the subject of peace.

This last section, however, is seen as presenting the Eisenhower administration's greatest challenge for leadership.

Every one of President Eisenhower's State of the Union messages since 1953 has emphasized his concern over world peace.

His second inaugural address, titled, "The Price of Peace," was devoted entirely to his interest in this cause.

Reiteration of this theme has established the President's position as one world leader dedicated to peace. Not even Communist propaganda labels Eisenhower as a warmonger.

But between being a peace advocate and being able to do anything constructive to establish peace is a great gap.

THE PRESIDENT'S bold proposal for a "Science for Peace" crusade, to be run in cooperation with Soviet Russia and all the other nations of the world, offers an intriguing idea for combating disease. But much work will have to be done to make this idea a reality.

In the same vein, much more work will have to be done to bring to fruition the President's dream of a disarmament agreement with the Russians, negotiated through the United Nations.

One great omission in the President's State of the Union message is that it gives nothing on the administration's position with respect to recent European suggestions for new negotiations with the Rushigh school. He displayed to fellow members a 30-inch, half-inch thick paddle and said he would like to see vandals given a "sound thrashing" by their parents on the stage of the high school in full view of the 1,200 pupils. "Nothing hurts more than embarrassment," VonDerheid said.

The board shied away from the proposal, a spokesman saying such punishment would be "a public spectacle and not nice."

For the eleventh year, a lay individual and a lay organization making an outstanding contribution to the health of the citizens of Pennsylvania will be honored by The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania with Benjamin Rush Awards. Each of the sixty county medical societies comprising the state society has been asked to nominate an individual and an organization for the awards, the selection of the state winner to be made by the Board of Trustees of the State Society. "Named for Dr. Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia, physician, statesman, and singer of the Declaration of Independence, the award is an expression of the gratefulness of medicine for the contributions of laymen in the promotion of better health and medical care to the people of the state," declares Dr. Allen W. Cowley, of Harrisburg, chairman of the State Society's Committee on Public Relations. "The awards have been presented annually to industrialists and school teachers, business groups and voluntary health organizations, and may be described as Pennsylvania's medicine's Nobel Prize." Winners of the state awards receive large mounted medallions containing a bas-relief of Dr. Rush, while county nominees receive smaller medallions.

Sugar Grove Presbyterian Church and Sunday School Hold Annual Meetings

Sugar Grove—The Rev. James M. Fisher presided at the ecclesiastical meeting and Everett Bowers for the corporation session of the annual congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church. Fulton McKay served as acting clerk in the absence of Frank B. Miller.

Reports showed 123 on the membership roll, one death and one dismissal to another church; also 600 pastoral calls made. Mr. McKay reported for session and session funds; Dorothy Fisher, Westminster Fellowship; Ray Gruber, trustees; Herbert Gourley, building and manse funds; Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr., for the auditing committee for 1957; Richard Sanders, Mrs. Fulton McKay, Arthur Cody and Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr.

Officers elected were: Elders, Ray Gruber, Norman Abbott and Lloyd Williams; trustees, Herbert Gourley, Richard Hiles and John Stuart, Jr.; nominating committee for 1959, Richard Sanders, Mrs. Fulton McKay, Arthur Cody and Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr.

Special prayer was offered for Frank Miller, patient in Warren General Hospital, who has served for 20 years as clerk of session and has missed but two annual meetings. Fulton McKay was named acting clerk, reporting to Mr. Miller.

Reports were also heard from the Women's Missionary Society, Try Company, and sunshine department of Try Company.

The annual meeting of the Sunday school followed the congregational session, with reports by officers and Mrs. Norman Abbott reading the nominating report for election of the following:

Superintendent, Everett Bowers; assistant, Lloyd Williams; secretary, Mrs. Perry Wilcox; treasurer, Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr.; elementary superintendent, Mrs. John Stuart, with Mrs. Everett Bowers assistant; Mary Hamilton, home department; Mrs. Ray Gruber, cradle roll; pianists, Dorothy Fisher for the senior department, with Tommy Nobbs as assistant, and Zane Nobbs in the elementary department.

Rev. Fisher conducted the Sunday morning communion service, ordaining and installing the elders and recognizing the trustees. He also baptized Jennifer Ruth, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John

Your World Narrows When You Dodge New Experiences

"I COULDN'T possibly do that." Whenever you automatically start to make that protest it's time to check up on yourself. The person whose first response to a challenge or a hard job or a new experience is, "I couldn't possibly . . .", is a person who is narrowing his life down to a small circle of activities, whether he knows it or not.

So before you protest that you can't do a thing, stop long enough to ask yourself why not.

The fact that you've never done it before isn't a legitimate excuse. The fact that you think you haven't the ability probably isn't a legitimate excuse, either. How do you know, unless you try?

EXAMINE THE REASONS

THERE might be half a dozen little reasons you could give to prove it would be impossible for you to do a certain thing. But maybe they're just minor obstacles that could be overcome, or small conflicting responsibilities that could be worked out.

The people who keep growing and developing and having fun through the years are not the ones who are quick to say, "I couldn't possibly."

They are the ones who say, "That sounds like fun," or "I'm not sure I can do it, but I'm willing to try," or "It will take some arranging, but I think I can work things out."

So if you have fallen into the habit of ducking any new and challenging experience, try accepting the next one and see what happens.

Chances are you'll find your world a little wider and your opinion of yourself a little higher for saying, "I'll try," instead of, "I couldn't possibly . . ."

SIMPLE SQUEEZE IS PERFECT SLAM

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Harry Fishbein of New York's Mayfair club is one of the greatest card players of all time. Here is one of his latest triumphs told in his own words.

"When I bid five no-trump my partner Morrie Elis jumped to seven clubs. I had shown that we held all the aces and he had just the right cards for the grand slam. East doubled and that could mean only one thing. A void in diamonds! I went to seven no-trump and West opened the diamond ten.

"I let the diamond ride around to my king and when East showed out I spread my hand and claimed seven on a simple squeeze good against any combination of cards."

Harry is right but I wonder just how many of you readers will see his "simple" squeeze? Here it is:

Since East had shown out of diamonds the diamond finesse is proven and you have 12 tricks. Now you cash the three top spades. If the jack drops you have 13 tricks. The way the cards actually lie East shows out of spades on the third lead of the suit. Now you run five clubs, discarding dummy's queen of hearts on the last club. The ace of hearts lead now forces West to throw the jack of spades to establish dummy's ten or a diamond to make dummy's three diamonds all good.

If West had shown out of spades Harry would have run the clubs again. On the last club lead West would have had to discard down to one heart to keep three diamonds. Now Harry would let go dummy's little diamond and lead to the ace-jack. On the second diamond East would have to go down to one heart to keep the jack of spades and both Harry's hearts would be winners. Simple!

Children Find It 'Suds' Fun to Paint Window Art

BY KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

SURROUNDED by the fine, brand-new Christmas toys, it's a brave child who dares to complain he has "nothing to do." But plenty of them will do just that during the holiday vacation.

Sometimes, I think, the excitement and the rich supply of new playthings is so bewildering to young children that they don't know where to begin to enjoy themselves.

The quarrels that stem from boredom, fatigue and confinement indoors are not necessarily forestalled by a recital of how many lovely new toys they have.

MORE HELPFUL than a recital to a busy mother is to have a couple of suggestions of things children can do that they haven't tried before.

Projects I've found most successful are those that are somewhat messy and which will show quick results.

Every child who has clouded a windowpane with his breath and quickly drawn a picture will enjoy the fancier effects possible with pictures made of soap or cleanser.

If you have a large mirror and a calm disposition, you may let them decorate that; but any windowpane will do.

"Suds fun" is the younger set's verdict when introduced to the 'pastime' of window or mirror painting with thick soapsuds or a cleanser made into a thin paste.

To give some direction to the project, let them work up designs on paper first.

Christmas cards are good sources for simple holiday motifs. Copy the design on to the glass with a silver of soap or a grease pencil, or use the paper as a guide.

If soap is the art medium, beat a handful of soap with a little water into thick, meringue-like suds.

Use a brush to apply the soap evenly to the glass.

Or mix a thin paste of cleanser and water and apply a thin coat to a windowpane or a portion of a mirror and, when dry, they can work a design using their fingers and cotton-tipped swabs as tools.

The Mature Parent

Seeking 'Cause' for Every Tantrum Is Wrong Approach

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

"SINCE our baby was born," writes Mrs. P., "our little girl has developed temper tantrums. Her nursery school psychologist thinks they are caused by jealousy. But telling her I love her as much as the baby isn't working. Could there be another cause of these tantrums?"

I don't know why this little girl gets angry. I'm not interested in knowing.

But I am awfully interested in knowing why her anger so upsets her mother. It's a pretty commonplace emotion. Why does Mrs. P. find it so peculiar in her child?

Adults are not supposed to respond to anger the way toddlers respond to the sudden noise of a vacuum cleaner.

It should not be filled with mystery and threat for us. We shouldn't have to run to some psychologist over a child's tantrums like the toddler flies to Mommy for safety from the vacuum cleaner. A child's rage should be a familiar, ordinary thing to us, not the awesome unknown.

WHY is it the awesome unknown to Mrs. P.? Sometimes our parents made it so. It was easy to do. They just showed themselves shocked, outraged or hurt when we exploded some childish rage at them.

By their recoil from it, they told us that anger was a most astounding thing. Until we correct this false impression, we are unable to treat anger in our own child as the old acquaintance it should be. We will remain as scared of it as the toddler is of the vacuum cleaner.

We don't solve our problem by seeking the "cause" of the youngster's tantrum.

MRS. P.'s little girl will feel anger at her mother for a thousand reasons in the course of their lives together.

Her mother lacks the time and training to match the right "cause" to every explosion.

If she wants the practical answer, she'll forget all about the "why" of these tantrums—and concentrate on the "why" of her own troubled response to them.

She'll start asking herself, "Why does human rage strike me as so astonishing? In what Never-Never Land do I live that I can't recognize this child's rage as the same thing that often makes me want to yell and strike and kick?"

Even the toddler gets cozy with the vacuum cleaner after he's investigated its operations.

FREE METHODIST CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Used clothing was readied and packed for the Tampa Mission for Spanish Speaking People, where Ruth Landin is stationed, and for Edward Craker to use in mission work in Rochester, N. Y.

Reports showed five baskets and other treats distributed by the sunshine department for Christmas; Mrs. Allenson and Mrs. Robert Williams will serve on the committee for World Day of Prayer union service; Mabel Reese and Mrs. Russell Jenkins are captains for the January 1-March 31 reading contest.

The hostess presented the study for Mrs. Lewis Peterson, who was ill, using the book "Cross and Crises in Japan," and three members passed the test.

Irvine Run Family Receives Check

The "Babbling Brooks", a father and son quartet from East Liverpool, Ohio, will be just one of the topnotch attractions for the Barbershoppers Night of Harmony in Beatty Auditorium this Saturday. This quartet was crowned champion of the Johnny Appleseed District in October of 1957 and were semi-finalists this past summer at the International Convention held in Los Angeles. From left above are Bob, tenor; Earl, lead; Bill, bass, and Chuck, baritone. See Photo.

Penelec Allocates $3,000,000 For Expanding Local Facilities

A campaign, spearheaded by Youngsville American Legion, Sylvan Local No. 993, and the Times-Mirror, culminated Monday in presentation of a check for $984.25 to Mike and Clara Knapp of Irvine Run. The Knapps, almost destitute since Mike underwent an operation last February which confined him to a cast for almost a year, had been finding things a little rough, especially when son Frank, seven years old, had to have hospital care following rheumatic fever last March. Above, Ed C. Lowrey, hands over the much-needed check. Besides the money, organizations and individuals have been helping the family with donations of canned goods, fresh meat, vegetables, clothing, household equipment, etc. In addition to the American Legion and Union No. 993, at the Sylvan plant in Warren, assistance has also been provided through the Youngsville Kiwanis club, the Warren Salvation Army, Seventh Day Adventist Church, Ladies Auxiliary of the Dinsmoor-Schwing Post VFW, Greek Orthodox, Methodist and EUB churches in Youngsville, Youngsville Firemen and Auxiliary, Thompson Hill Sunday School, Warren County Gold Star Mothers, Salem EUB Ladies' Aid, Teamsters' Union Local 993, Warren County Auxiliary Police, The Pittsfield Lumber Mill, and many others. To everyone who in any way contributed to the effort to make a Merry Christmas for Mike and Clara Knapp and their two boys they extend a sincere and grateful word of appreciation. Just how long Mr. Knapp will be incapacitated is uncertain at the present time. He was happy that he could make the trip to Warren and the Times-Mirror to accept the check and convey his thanks, looking forward to the day when he will resume his employment. Pennsylvania Electric Company will spend $3,000,000 in its Northern Division in 1958 to improve transmission and distribution facilities which provide vital electricity to homes, businesses, farms and factories. Division Manager Royal A. Pickup says in a publicity release just received. Benefiting by these improvements will be Oil City, Titusville, Franklin, Knox, Warren, Bradford and adjacent communities.

This construction work designed to satisfy constantly increasing electrical needs in the division is part of Penelec's program to spend more than $41,000,000 during the year throughout its 32-county service area and continues the company's widespread expansion program that was started after World War II.

One of the major 1958 projects that will increase considerably the amount of power available in the Oil City area, as well as in other parts of the division, will be the extension of the company's vital "kilovolt turnpike" north from Shawville. This extension will make it possible for local users to receive electricity from a giant power pool consisting of 65 power plants strategically located in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, as well as the increased power output at Shawville Station. One section of this line already is completed from Shawville to Ridgway and this circuit will be extended to Warren during the year. At Warren this line will connect with another major power artery to Union City which will be rebuilt this year to carry double its present capacity. From Union City the line extends to Erie.

Other projects planned in the company's Northern Division this year include an increase of capacity for distribution lines serving the Hydetown-Chapmanville areas and lines serving Oil City's South Side to provide a more plentiful and efficient power supply for both of these sections.

The Titusville and Garland areas also will have improved electric service as the result of rebuilding the distribution facilities in the North Perry Street area of Titusville and increasing the capacity of the transmission line from Tidouste to Garland. At East Titusville Substation new and larger transformers will be installed to increase this area's power supply. Improved voltage regulation for the Franklin and Bradford areas, insuring more efficient operation of electrical equipment and appliances, will be provided by the installation of new capacitors in major substations at both of these locations.

In the Lewis Run, Custer City and Corydon areas the distribution voltage is to be raised from 4,800 volts to 8,000 volts, increasing the capacity of distribution lines serving this area. New substations are to be provided at Rixford in the Bradford District and Haddon Heights in the Oil City District, making available larger amounts of electricity in these areas. Distribution facilities in the Tionesta Borough are to be rebuilt.

In the Seneca and Dempseytown areas distribution voltage change from 4,000 volts to 12,000 volts will provide increased power to serve present customers and a margin of reserve for the future. A voltage change from 7,200 volts to 12,000 volts is contemplated for the Sheffield, Stoneham and Kinzua areas. This will increase both the pressure and amount of power available to area customers who are constantly using more economical electricity in many helpful ways. Major changes in the distribution facilities within Warren Borough will provide assurance of continued good service at this location.

All of the above projects have been planned and are to be carried out with the intention of continuing the high level of service to all customers throughout the Northern Division.

Speaking of Sports . . .

Sportsmen's Service Bureau announced today the appointment of Jim Dee as director of the shooting development program of the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers' Institute. Harry Hampton has been named assistant director. As director of this program, Mr. Dee will coordinate all promotional activities concerned with shooting sports, among them recreational shooting, junior shooting and shooting preserves. Need for this program was fostered by the rapid growth over the past five years of shooting sports. Sportsmen's groups, schools, clubs and shooting preserves have demanded a central source for information and help in the programs to create and enlarge places to shoot.

Bears in Tie With Beaty in 'Koin League

Jamestown Sun: Washington School's defending titleholding Loboes rocketed into a tie with Warren Junior High Dragons for first place in the Chadakoin Valley Junior High School Basketball League standings with a 53-41 triumph over Falconer's young Falcons on the North Side court Tuesday afternoon.

Flewsburg's Baby Bears pulled to the .500 level by registering their first victory of the season, a squeaking 26-26 success over Lincoln's Blue and Gold at Flewsburg through superiority from the foul line.

The third scheduled tilt, Warren at Jefferson, was postponed because of the slippery conditions of the highways and will be played next Tuesday.

The combination of Washington's victory and Warren's defeat sets up what should be one of the circuit's banner attractions of the campaign, the Warrentes invading the Washington gym Thursday afternoon at four. The game originally was scheduled for Friday but was set ahead by mutual agreement of the coaches.

The standings:

Much Interest in Tonight's Battle At Philadelphia

Philadelphia (AP) — Depending upon where you live, tonight's bout between Philadelphia's Gil Turner and Vince Martinez of Paterson, N. J., is or isn't a fight to earn a shot at the welterweight championship.

If you live in New York or in any place where the jurisdiction of the World Boxing Championship Committee is accepted as law, you'll merely be watching one of a series of eliminations to determine a title-holder.

If you live in Massachusetts you probably will watch the bout as just another fight of top welterweights.

If, however, you live in a state where boxing is under the National Boxing Association, you will be witnessing the semi-final elimination in the 147-pound title series. The winner has been ordered by the NEA to fight Isaac Logart for the title vacated by Carmen Basilio after he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson.

The NEA says it will recognize the winner of a Turner, Martinez, Logart, Gaspar Ortega elimination series as champion. Logart beat Ortega and thus already has fought his way into the final. ABC will telecast the fight.

Much Interest Is Exhibited in Auto Show January 24-25

Sharp interest in the annual Auto Show is indicated by the busy sale of advance tickets throughout the Warren area.

Sponsored each year by the 40 of the American Legion, the tremendous show attracts hundreds of fascinated lookers and prospective buyers.

This season's presentation will again feature the outstanding car models designed for the American motorist of 1958 with local dealers keenly interested in displaying their finest cars and explaining new and exciting features.

This opportunity to view the latest developments in the automotive industry will be augmented when those in attendance take a trip to the nostalgic past when the Locomobile was considered the last word on wheels. William Crossett has offered his 1919 Locomobile, beautifully restored, as a distinctly different Auto Show feature. The car placed second in a field of 39 entries during the fall meeting of the Antique Auto Club at Hershey, Pa.

Sports car enthusiasts will also be on hand to view the '58 foreign car version.

Many other attractions will be available at Beaty cafeteria Friday, January 24 from 7 'til 10 p. m. and Saturday, January 25 from 2 'til 10 p. m. when the 40 at 8 Annual Auto Show will be in full swing.

YOUR FOREST RANGER

By Larry Stotz

Deer season had just ended on the Allegheny National Forest and the woods were empty of red coated hunters. Three days of rain had swelled the streams to near flood stage, and the water flowing by wasn't as clear as it should have been. The logging roads into the timber sales were quagmires from the soaking rain that had washed all the frost out of them. The flow of logs and pulpwood, to the mills, was halted until winter should come back in earnest to bind soil and moisture into a firm pavement that would not yield to the weight of the heavy trucks.

At the end of the antlerless deer season, the bare ground at every turn-out on the forest roads reminded you of the heavy hunter use. There was the carelessly ejected loaded shell lying on the ground beside the empty bottle, the soggy cardboard carton and the tin cans with their tattered labels. Under a clump of hemlock, the narrow trench and the tent stakes formed a rectangle that surrounded a moldy pile of straw that had served as a mattress for a hunter who had not thought it necessary to clean up his tent camp before he left.

You thought of the hunters who had met and talked to, those from the big cities and those from the small towns and villages of Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York. It was a pleasant experience to visit with them. There was the young hunter who had just dragged his doe up a short hill to his car. It was a warm day, and he was over-dressed. He complained of exhaustion and the heat. And no wonder. He wore insulated underwear, a heavy woolen shirt and a thick hunting jacket. He looked longingly at the water running down the road ditch and wondered if it would be safe to drink.

You thought of the hunters who ranged far, filled with the joy of tramping in the woods and eager to see what was over the next ridge. They probed the dense hemlock thickets and stalked valleys they had never entered before. And the road hunters who patrolled a narrow strip only a stone's throw from the ridge road where they parked their cars. You had little patience with their complaint that there were no deer left in the Forest.

You took girth measurements on deer that revealed their approximate weights. The legal bucks you checked only averaged 93 pounds. In antlerless deer season you found that one out of four deer you checked were button bucks and these little fellows only averaged 55 pounds. You tried to convince a hunter who shot one of these that he was still a good sportsman, and his conscience shouldn't bother him for there would have been little chance of such deer's surviving the winter anyway. You measured a deer that had dropped dead in his tracks from a single bullet—a shot as clean as a Sioux war arrow through the throat of an enemy. You checked some other deer that were mutilated by too many running shots fired by nervous and inexperienced hands.

You found that the hunters were beginning to ask questions. And many already had the answers. They saw the relationship between the quality of the deer they hunted and the available food supply. They saw the pole stage forest grown out of reach of the deer. A hunter, in the cabin you visited, pulled his coat from a deer head mounted on the wall and showed you a fine rack from a buck that had ranged nearby in the days when deer browse was still abundant.

"You don't see any racks like these around here any more," he complained. And hastened to add, "I don't know how they keep from starving to death in the winter." You didn't see many fresh deer tracks the past week, but you accepted this as good news for the remaining deer that still faced three months of snow and cold. There would be fewer mouths to feed and these animals that were left should come through in good shape.
